SETTY, a leading national engineering firm known for its innovative and complex building engineering solutions, proudly announces the acquisition of NRG Compliance, Inc., a distinguished provider of energy compliance and Title 24 modeling services. This strategic union marks a significant enhancement in our offerings, reinforcing our commitment to energy efficiency, sustainability, and compliance with the latest international building codes and green building standards, including LEED, BEPS, Building EQ, and WELL, particularly in the California market.

With a proven track record of collaboration, SETTY has worked closely with NRG on Title 24 services for the past 15 years. This long-standing partnership has been instrumental in shaping a shared vision for sustainable building practices and energy efficiency.

"Through this strategic acquisition, we aim to fortify our position in the sustainable building sector and expand our capabilities to offer our clients a comprehensive array of services, from energy compliance to complete engineering solutions. NRG Compliance's unparalleled expertise in residential Title 24 energy efficiency and compliance perfectly aligns with SETTY's mission to lead the industry towards a more sustainable and efficient future," stated Raj Setty, PE.

NRG Compliance will be integrated into the SETTY brand, enhancing our service portfolio and enabling us to deliver added value and expertise to our clients across different sectors. The synergy between NRG Compliance's capabilities and SETTY's extensive engineering services is expected to foster innovative solutions and drive excellence in energy efficiency and sustainable building design.

The acquisition is a step forward in our journey towards embracing the feedback loop of California's energy efficiency regulations, which is anticipated to elevate the commercial and institutional engineering process for SETTY, ensuring that our projects not only meet but exceed the evolving standards of sustainability and energy efficiency.
